

CONSULTATION RESPONSE

Response to TSOs' proposal for the 4th amendment of the Core CCR TSOs' regional design of long-term transmission rights

Brussels, 20th October 2025

Response

Energy Traders Europe appreciates the opportunity to provide comments on the proposed Fourth Amendment of the Core TSOs' LTTR Design.

We welcome the inclusion of the SEM-FR bidding zone border in the Core Capacity Calculation Region and support the assignment of this border to the existing framework. The extension of the long-term allocation framework to new interconnectors is an important step toward harmonised and transparent long-term markets in Europe.

We welcome the confirmation of the nature of the LTTRs that will be auctioned at this border, namely, FTR options.

We encourage Core TSOs and relevant parties to publish a clear implementation timeline for the go-live of the SEM-FR interconnector, including when FTR options will be auctioned. Early and transparent communication is essential for successful onboarding of new borders, including providing information about auction calendars, products and capacity calculation methodologies.
