

Energy Traders Europe Launches Integrate by '28

Brussels, 24/02/2026

Energy Traders Europe today publishes Integrate by '28, its flagship roadmap to complete the Single Market for Energy by 2028.

Four years after Russia's invasion of Ukraine exposed Europe's structural vulnerabilities, the strategic case for a fully integrated Internal Energy Market is clearer than ever. In line with President von der Leyen's ambition to complete the Single Market by 2028, including for energy, the report sets out 45 concrete actions to be delivered in 2026, 2027 and 2028.

The report's central message is straightforward: Europe already has the legal, institutional and market foundations required. The priority now is full and consistent implementation across Member States and institutions.

Deeper integration represents Europe's most immediate route to:

- Strengthening industrial competitiveness
- Reinforcing resilient security of supply
- Delivering carbon neutrality at least cost
- Simplifying compliance for EU companies

Giusi Squicciarini, Chair of Energy Traders Europe, said:

"Europe's energy markets have delivered extraordinary benefits. Over two decades, integration and competition have strengthened security of supply, enabled the rapid growth of low carbon and renewable generation and boosted competitiveness. But the job is not finished. In this increasingly competitive global economy and geopolitical environment, fragmentation, regulatory uncertainty and uneven implementation are holding Europe back.

Integrate by '28 therefore sets out a practical approach to completing the Internal Energy Market over the next three years - and focusses on the importance of common goals and political leadership in making that a reality. By integrating markets rather than fragmenting them, and by relying on competition rather than intervention, Europe can turn its Internal Energy Market into a decisive strategic asset – driving competitiveness, enhancing security, delivering climate goals and protecting consumers."
